SITUATION SUMMARY

Outbreak of Legionnaires' Disease at San Quentin: San Rafael, Marin County

On 08/27/15 at 1748 hours, San Quentin's Senior Emergency Management Coordinator (Sr. EMC) notified the Warning Center that an emergency procurement of drinking water will be required due to one confirmed case of Legionnaires' and other inmates showing signs of possible infection.

- Marin County's Public Health Officer met with the San Quentin officials and a "do not drink or bathe" order was enforced at the facility; however, alternate water sources were procured, i.e. bottled water.
- The Cal OES Coastal Region Duty Officer (CDO) furnished the current bulk water hauler list to San Quentin's Sr. EMC.
- San Quentin is currently investigating the possible source of the contamination.
- Water is shut off to the prison and a do not drink/bathe order, has been issued. The prison resumed the use of plumbed toilets inside the facility's housing units, and monitored use of water for cooking as of Friday afternoon. Secondary water sources such as bottled water and water tanks will continue to be used for consumption until it is deemed safe to resume normal water use.
- Inmates are currently being served boxed meals to avoid exposure to steam and mist during cooking operations.
- The prison is planning on needing assistance for approximately 2 weeks, and there are no plans to evacuate prisoners or use laundry trailers.
- San Quentin is a reception center for new inmates to the California prison system. Intake has been temporarily halted as the investigation continues.
- All inmate visiting and volunteer programs have been halted as the investigation continues.
- Per CDO as of 0823 hours on 09/01/15, CDCR issued an updated Press Release. Per the Press Release:
 - There are six confirmed cases of inmates with Legionnaires' which are all being treated at SQ's on-site medical unit. Five inmates are in outside area hospitals being treated for pneumonia-like symptoms but none are confirmed to have Legionnaires'.
 - There are 73 inmates under observation for respiratory illness. They have not been diagnosed with Legionnaires' and are being treated at SQ's on-site medical unit.
 - There are no confirmed cases of staff with Legionnaires'.
 - The Cal OES CDO worked with Marin County OES and DSS Mass Care and Shelter, who provided another local Mobile Kitchen Unit \(MKU\) at the San Quentin Command Post.

SITUATION SUMMARY

Measles Exposure Warning, City of Berkeley, Alameda County (New)

- A test confirmed that a UC Berkeley student was diagnosed with measles Monday, 08/31/2015, after potentially exposing the public to the highly infectious disease.
- The student may have exposed others to the disease between Aug. 24th and Aug. 29th. The student spent time on campus, in the community and rode on a AC Transit bus before developing a rash.
- The city's Public Health Department is working with the University to alert and assess anyone who was exposed to the ill student.
- Measles symptoms can develop between 7 – 21 days after being exposed to the virus. The airborne measles virus can remain in the air for up to two hours. Anyone exposed to the measles may develop a fever and a facial rash and should contact their doctor.

SOC Activation for California Wildfires

- The State Operations Center (SOC) is activated at Level 1.
- The Coastal REOC is activated at Level 1.
- The Inland REOC is activated at Level 1.

Cal EOC Incident – 2014 Drought

- SOC / Inland REOC remains activated in support of 2014 Drought

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

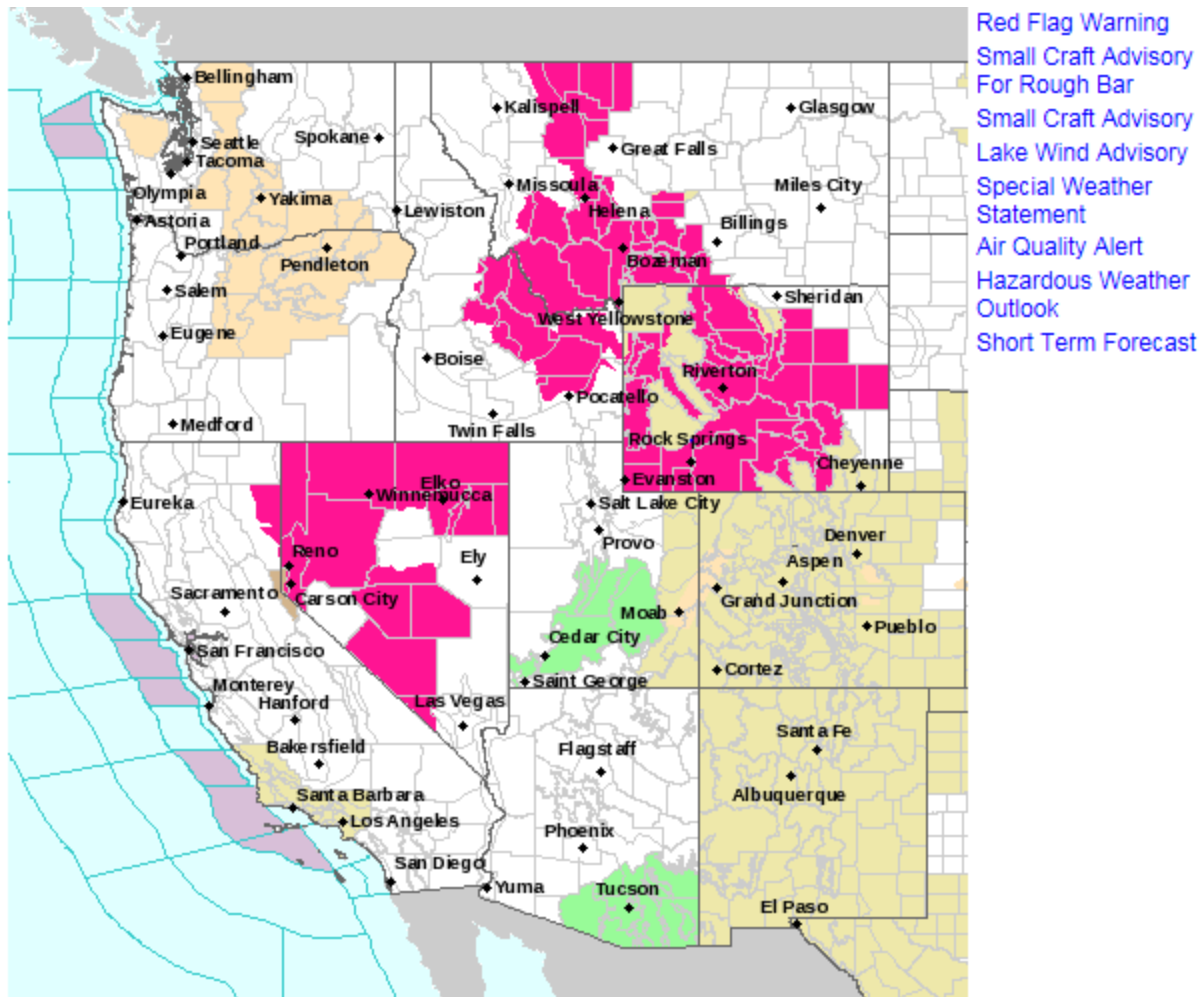

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA

An evolving low pressure trough will dominate our weather pattern for the next week. Over the next few days the trough will strengthen over the region and cooler, breezy weather will develop. The coolest weather will be in place Friday with some chance of showers over the northern third of the State. The trough will weaken considerably over the weekend with warmer, drying conditions expected to develop and last into next week. The marine layer will likely remain rather minimal through the next seven days. Moderately strong, gusty southwest to west winds will develop and increase Wednesday afternoon as the trough strengthens. Gusts will increase to around 25 mph in most areas, but will become as strong as 30-35 mph near and east of the Cascade/Sierra Crest. Local areas of low relative humidity will also develop east of the crest. Less gusty southwest to west afternoon winds will continue through Friday, then lighter northerly winds will develop this weekend and continue into next week. Temperatures will be cooling through Friday with both afternoon highs and overnight lows becoming as much as 10 to 12 degrees below normal. The warmer inland valleys will be near 80 Friday afternoon. Much warmer weather will rapidly return over the weekend with a bit above normal afternoon highs and near normal lows expected early next week. The warmer inland valleys will likely return to the mid and upper 90s early next week. Humidity will be on the rise with higher relative humidity recovery in many of the drier areas the end of the week. Over the weekend, mid and higher slopes will likely return to somewhat poor to moderate overnight relative humidity recovery conditions. Fuel moisture will be somewhat slow to dry in the northern areas through the rest of this week under the low pressure trough, cooling temperatures and higher relative humidity are expected to develop. All areas will see considerable drying over the weekend into next week. The gusty winds Wednesday are not expected to lead to any high risk conditions.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

A pair of troughs will keep temperatures slightly below average through the entire week and into the weekend. Onshore flow and a deep marine layer will result in widespread night and morning low clouds along the coast and into the lower coastal slopes each morning through Saturday. In all, temperatures will be 5 to 8 degrees below average through Saturday with highs in the lower to mid 70s along the coast, upper 80s in the valleys, to 108 in the deserts. West winds of 15-25 mph with gusts to 35 mph can be expected each afternoon in the deserts. Minimum relative humidity will fall into the 10-15% range this afternoon in the mountains above 7,000 feet, but readings should be a bit higher Wednesday afternoon when the first trough moves inland. Some gusty west winds of 20-30 mph can be expected in the Sierras and Mono County Wednesday and Wednesday night. A deeper trough is expected to push into the Pacific Northwest Friday which will lead to even cooler temperatures and an increase in winds in the high country. Some wind gusts to 50 mph will be possible in the higher elevations of the Sierras and the eastern slope into Mono County Friday afternoon. Minimum relative humidity may fall into the 8-12% range over many areas Friday above the marine layer. A slow warming trend is expected Sunday and Monday with less marine layer coverage at the coast by Labor Day. No thunderstorms are expected during the period.
